Engrave Ink Cremation Tattoo Ink

What Families Need to Know

What is cremation tattoo ink?

Cremation tattoo ink is professional-grade tattoo ink infused with a small amount of a loved one's cremated ashes. The finished tattoo looks, feels, and heals like any standard tattoo, but carries a permanent physical connection to the person you lost.

Is cremation tattoo ink safe?

When professionally manufactured, yes. Engrave Ink uses dry thermal refinement at over 2,800 degrees Fahrenheit and three-stage filtration to achieve a consistent 40-micrometer particle size. This eliminates the risks of clumping, uneven distribution, and skin irritation that come with hand-mixing ashes into regular ink.

How much does it cost?

A single bottle of Engrave Ink (black or white) is $289. The black and white pair is $489. Free shipping is included. Use code memorialmerits10 at checkout for $10 off your order. Pricing current as of 2026.

How does the process work?

After ordering, Engrave Ink ships a serialized retaining kit to your home. You send back about half a tablespoon of cremation ashes using the pre-paid return postage. The company processes and refines the ashes, infuses them into tattoo ink, and ships the finished bottle back to you in approximately four weeks. Any unused ashes are returned in the original container.

Can any tattoo artist use this ink?

Any licensed tattoo artist can work with Engrave Ink. It applies just like standard tattoo ink with no special equipment needed. Engrave Ink also provides Safety Data Sheets and artist indemnification documentation upon request, which helps artists who may have liability concerns.

Does this work with pet ashes?

Yes. The process works with both human and pet cremation ashes, including remains from traditional flame cremation and alkaline hydrolysis (aqua cremation).
