Venus Series Pieta FAQ

Ordering online is fast and simple. Everything you need is on this page.

Is this casket appropriate for a Catholic funeral?

Yes. The Venus Series Pieta features Last Supper themed hardware on the corners and handles, designed for Catholic and traditional Christian services. The ivory crepe interior with adjustable bed is suitable for open casket viewing before Mass. There is no Catholic Church requirement specifying a particular casket style or seal type.

What does sealed construction mean?

A rubber gasket between the lid and the shell creates a close. Some families prefer sealed caskets for tradition or personal comfort. Sealed construction does not preserve remains indefinitely, regardless of what a funeral director may imply. It is a preference, not a requirement for burial.

What is the adjustable bed?

An interior mattress platform that can be repositioned to adjust height and angle for proper presentation during viewing. This allows the funeral home to position your loved one correctly relative to the casket walls and pillow, improving the appearance at the service.

How is it different from the Monroe White at the same price?

The Venus Series Pieta is bronze and copper, sealed, with Last Supper themed hardware for Catholic and Christian services. The Monroe White is white, non-sealed, with standard hardware for non-religious or celebration of life services. Same $995 price, same steel gauge, same dimensions. The difference is appearance and religious context.

Will the funeral home accept it?

Yes. The FTC Funeral Rule requires every licensed U.S. funeral home to accept a family-provided casket with no handling fee. Discount Caskets hand-delivers directly to the funeral home.
